According to our guru Dr. Akira Miyawaki, “Real forests made up of trees native to the area are three-dimensional, multi-layered communities having 30 times the surface area of the greenery of single-layered lawns, and have more than 30 times the ability to protect against natural disasters and to conserve the environment. “

“We often forget that we are nature. Nature is not something separate from us. So when we say we have lost our connection with nature, we have lost our connection to ourselves”

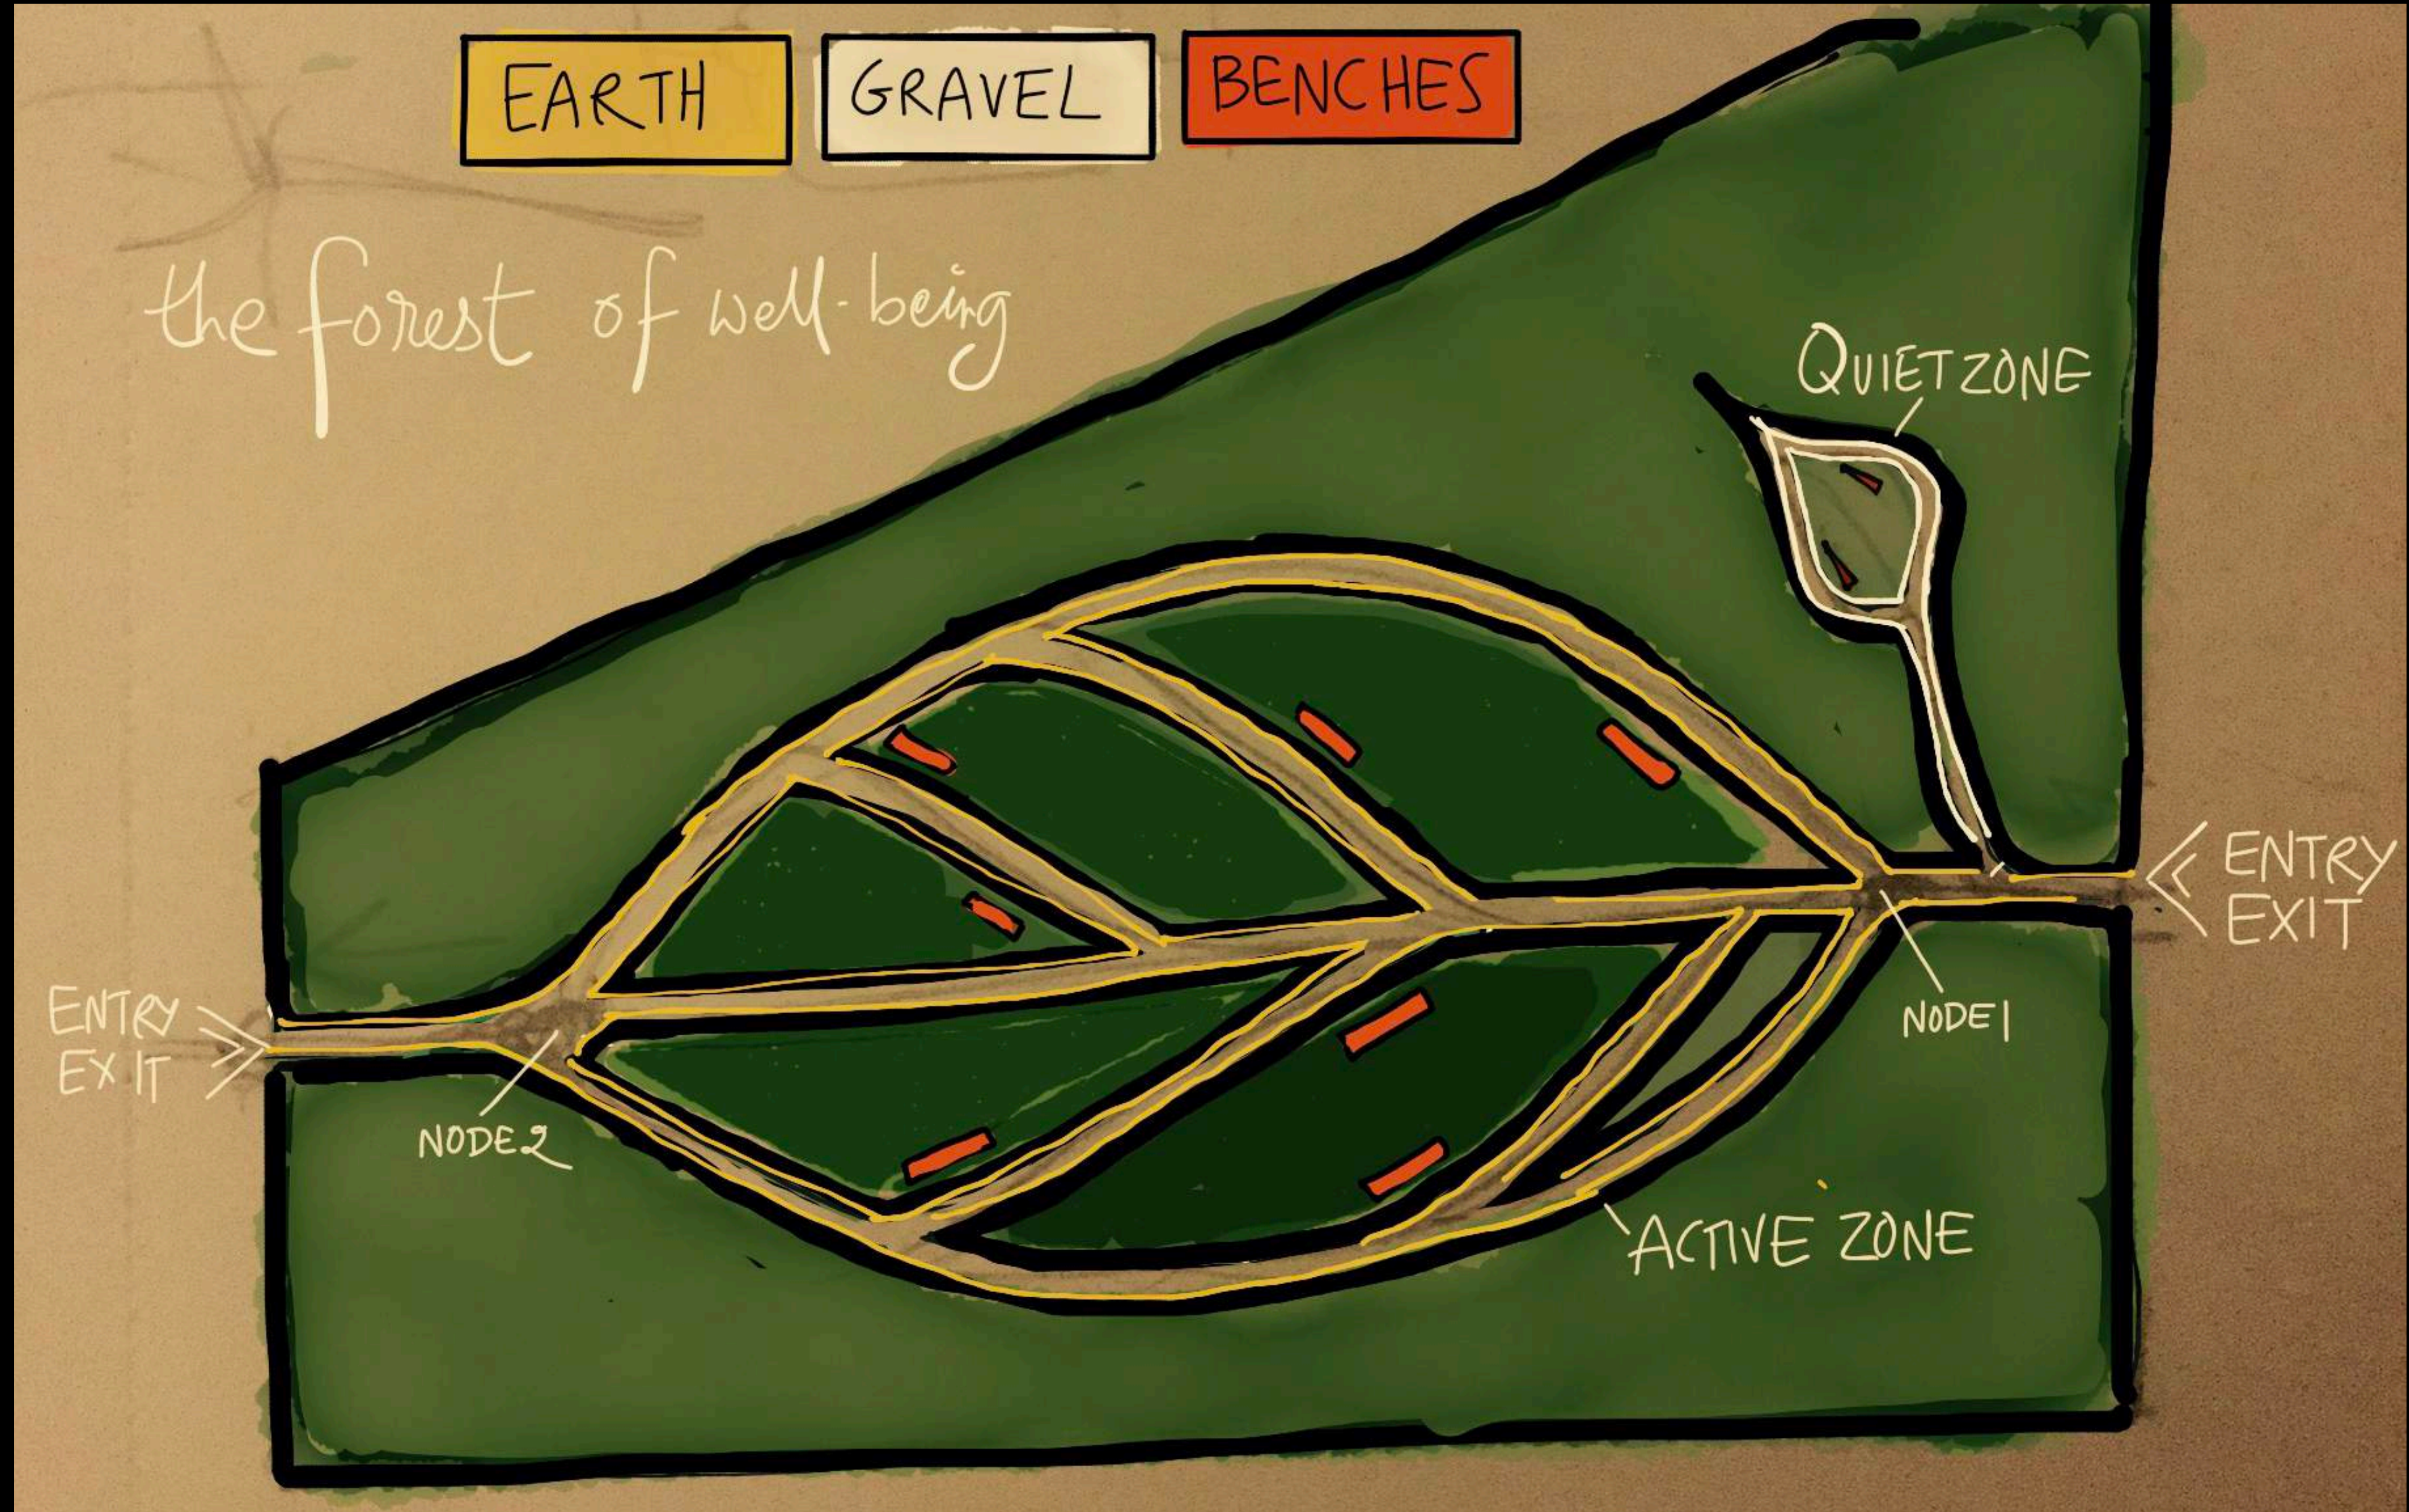

ART. DESIGN. FOREST

Forestscaping is the synergy between forest-creation, design and art. We believe that in order to reclaim our relationship with forests, we must bring them back into our living spaces. Our Forestscapes are meant to be experiential and inviting; where you can find yourself again by getting lost in them.

Forestscaping is our end-to-end service, wherein we take complete responsibility of the design concept, materials, manpower, machinery, execution, management and maintenance.

Forest Creation Workshop

Forest Creation Workshops

Our forest creation workshops provide an opportunity for people to learn how to create their own forests in an interactive, experiential and hands-on manner. It's an interesting mix of classroom sessions and actual outdoor forest creation. Through these workshops participants acquire the skill, experience and knowledge they need to create forests in their respective regions.

Online Trainings

Online Training

Through online trainings we share our methodology, standard operating procedure (SOP) documents, videos, photographs, and case studies related to our forest creation work.

Through the program we focus on building the capacity of our trainees to enable them to do their own research, adapt the methodology according to their region, and create their own forests. The training gives clarity about the philosophy and science behind the methodology.

Thank You!
